

DGR-PRC Candidate Success Story

Candidate's Story

After proudly serving the Indian Air Force for many years, I began planning my second career well before my retirement. A few months before leaving the service, I was nominated by the Directorate General Resettlement (DGR) to attend the PRC (Professional Resettlement Course) at the Institute of Entrepreneurship Development (IED), Shimla.

The training proved to be a turning point in my life. During the course, we interacted with experienced faculty members, successful entrepreneurs, and various industries. These sessions helped me develop an entrepreneurial mindset, understand business planning, and gain the confidence to start my own venture after retirement.

Inspired by the knowledge and motivation I received during the training, I decided to enter the tourism and hospitality sector. After retirement, I established "Tiranga Restaurant" in Hisar, Haryana.

Today, my restaurant has become a successful business and a matter of pride for me. It currently provides employment to around 50 people, contributing to the local economy. In the last quarter, the business earned an approximate net profit of Rs 5 lakh, making it a significant milestone in my post-retirement journey.

I sincerely express my heartfelt gratitude to the Directorate General Resettlement (DGR) and the Institute of Entrepreneurship Development, Shimla, for equipping me with the knowledge, confidence, and entrepreneurial skills needed to transform my dream into reality. Their guidance helped me successfully transition from a career in the Indian Air Force to becoming an entrepreneur and a job creator.

I hope my journey inspires other retiring Armed Forces personnel to explore entrepreneurship with confidence and make a meaningful contribution to society.

Jai Hind!
